ABOUT TOBIAS FRIEDRICH

Tobias Friedrich loved to watch the adventures of the Calypso featuring Jacques-Yves Cousteau during his childhood. The beauty of the world that is below the ocean's surface mesmerised Tobias. It still overwhelms him every time he has the chance to dive. He loves the elegance and calmness of the world underwater contrasting with the hectic atmosphere above.

Tobias is based in Wiesbaden Germany which is conveniently close to Frankfurt Airport, a major hub for Germany. This facilitates his international travels for assignments around the globe. He first started taking underwater photographs with a DSLR in 2007. Since then, his images have been published in prestigious scuba diving magazines and newspapers all around the world, and several underwater photographic competitions have honoured his work, resulting in over 50 awards with 30 first places. He was awarded "Underwater Photographer of the Year 2018" in the prestigious UPY London competition. In addition, he is the "German Photographer of the Year 2019" in the Worlds Shootout.

Tobias feels at home in all waters; ranging from subzero to 30° Celsius. As long as there are captivating images to shoot, he is game.

Another great passion is leading international expeditions and workshops where he invites anyone to join and share his love for the underwater world.
